

Seven NewVision Customers Implement NewVision RecordsNG

New Canaan, Connecticut – (February 25, 2011) -- NewVision Systems Corporation is pleased to announce that seven customers have recently implemented the first two phases of the NewVision RecordsNG System:

- Osceola County (Kissimmee), Florida
- Martin County (Stuart), Florida
- Columbia County (Hudson), New York
- Ocean County (Toms River), New Jersey
- Morris County (Morristown), New Jersey
- Cass County (Harrisonville), Missouri
- Buchanan County (St. Joseph), Missouri

The RecordsNG Public View System is the first implementation of the NewVision RecordsNG suite of products that automates the recording and retrieval of official records by Clerks, Registers and Recorders. Based on the Microsoft .Net platform, the RecordsNG Public View System enables a single user interface for both local and remote internet users.

The system also adds a host of features to improve the speed and efficiency of records searching for both the Clerk's staff and the public. The new system offers options for basic searches and provides an advanced search capability designed for professional searchers. The advanced capability enables compound searches that may include multiple names, date ranges and document type restrictions. The .Net based interface also enables searchers to tailor the display of search results – including desired columns, font types and sizes - to their individual needs.

Each of these customers is also in the process of implementing the new RecordsNG Batch Scanning System. RecordsNG Scan utilizes the scanner to interpret barcodes that are printed on the documents or cover sheets. This process eliminates the use of hand operated barcode guns and key entry of recording data prior to scanning. As documents are scanned, thumbnails are generated, allowing for easy navigation and editing (insert, append, delete) of images much like Microsoft's PowerPoint.
